C. H. LEVER PASSES A WAY AT FOX LAKE

Conducted Real Estate and Insurance business for Past 10 Years

BURIAL AT McHENRY

Charles Henry Lever was born at Milwaukee, Mich., Dec. 12, 1863, and departed this life at Fox Lake, Ill., Jan. 4, 1923, aged 60 years and 23 days.

When he was only ten years old, his father's death left him largely to make his own way. He went with his mother to Lexington, Mich., for a time, thence to his grandmother in Canada, later to Detroit for a time, then to Bay City, Mich., then to Dallas, Texas. Finally he settled in Chicago at twenty-five years of age, where eventually he became established in the manufacture of a number of articles of household use, and for many years had a prosperous business and large production.

On Aug. 16, 1918, he was united in marriage with Mureo Jewell Spense. The next year they came to Fox Lake, which has been their home since. Mr. Lever engaged in real estate and insurance business.

During all his days, the departed was known as a man who stood for the best things in life. Thrown with every sort of evil and wrong, under every influence to corrupt, he lived the pure life, the kindly life, the gentle life, the life that abhorred all manner of evil and cherished everything that was good. Surely, there is a source of moral and spiritual strength, a fountain of purity from which a man may drink and live—live the life that shall last forever and be pure forever; and surely this must be the secret of the pure and upright and kindly life of Charles Henry Lever.

He is survived by his wife and one eight-year-old son, Charles Henry, Jr. Four children have passed on before.

The funeral was conducted at the home in Fox Lake and interment was made in the McHenry cemetery.

ANNUAL FARM MEET AT MORRISON HOTEL

Lake County farmers should make a special effort to attend the annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural association, to be held at the Morrison hotel, Chicago, Jan. 17 and 18th. A strong program has been arranged and it should be easy for a large delegation of our farm-bureau members to attend one or more days. Would be a splendid opportunity to observe first hand the work of our big state association—the strongest in the country.

Grass Lake School

LESTER TRIGER, Editor

School again after a nice vacation which we all enjoyed.

The seventh and eighth grades are finishing county maps and are practicing the lettering for their geometry booklets.

Arthur Pregenzer is home for the holidays. He was a pleasant visitor at school just before Christmas. The N. W. M. N. academy of Lake Geneva must be a fine school as Arthur certainly looks fine in his uniform. He expects to return about the 9th of January.

Peter Kiefer was at Hubbard Woods for three days, where he visited his father and brother.

Arnold Shuaneeon spent part of his vacation in Chicago.

Milien Johnson spent a few days at Rethora, returning to the city Sunday night.

Peter Waldweller is in school again. Juanita Nickerson, while tobogganing, fell and broke her wrist. She left the hospital last Wednesday. She is in school but her arm is in a sling.

Miss Josephine Michell returned to her school last Wednesday.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, January 15, 1903

J. J. Morley and wife were Chicago visitors Monday and Tuesday.

Williams Bros. are this week filling their ice house with some very fine ice, about 12 inches thick, taken from Cross Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Harrison have returned from Byron, Wis., where he was employed as operator in the W. C. depot.

J. J. Morley has purchased the Tyrell farm. The farm consists of eighty acres and is situated about two miles south of Antioch.

Jerome Burnett, who has been confined to the house for the past few weeks, is so much improved that he is able to be out a little at a time.

Frank Pilman, Jr., and John Sibley left the latter part of last week for Round Lake, where they will have charge of the ice crew during the ice harvest.

Friday evening, Jan. 16th, a birthday surprise party was given Mrs. M. H. Farrer. The affair was managed by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wells, which is a guarantee of success. The surprise was a genuine one. After a time spent in social conversation, five tables were placed and progressive euchre was indulged in until about 11 o'clock when the scores were counted and it was announced that Mrs. Will Kelly and Mr. George Webb carried off the prizes. The elegant refreshments were served. Several handsome tokens were brought and all departed for their homes at a late hour wishing Mrs. Farrer many happy returns of the day. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wells, Mr. and Mrs. George Webb, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Grice, Mr. and Mrs. Will Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. G. Thayer, Mr. and Mrs. Will Smart, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Flueber, Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Case, Mr. George Brown, Mrs. Libbie King, Mrs. Carrie Hook, and Mrs. F. E. Simmons.

MILLBURN INSURANCE CO ELECTS OFFICERS

The sixty-eighth annual meeting of the Millburn Mutual Insurance Company was held in the Masonic hall, Millburn, January 6th, 1923. The company has had a very successful year, having 1949 policies in force, with an insurance of $5,824,874. This is one of the largest Farmer's Mutual Insurance companies in this state.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, John A. Thal; secretary, J. S. Deaman; treasurer, C. J. Wright; northern director, David Pulley; central director, W. F. Clew; southern director, John G. Wirtz.

Channel Lake School

Our Christmas program was held Friday afternoon, Dec. 23, consisting of songs, recitations and two plays. Twenty-five visitors from the school district were here, and Mrs. B. Triger from Grass Lake and Mrs. Adolf Pesat from Antioch were present.

We had two weeks vacation. Monday all the pupils were here with the exception of Beulah and Agnes Boudin.

Grace and Dorothy King, and Claire Thompson, who was one of the eighth grade last year and is now attending high school at Austin, spent a week at the Roberts' home.

The seventh and eighth grades are now using the slant gothic booklet in their lettering in geometry.

Mrs. S. Rockwell entertained company from Chicago over the holidays.

COUNTY COURT OPENS AT NINE O'CLOCK

Judge Perry L. Persons on Monday morning started on a new schedule in his county court law call with a view of allowing more time for lawyers to meet their appointments in other courts. The court will start its calls at 9 o'clock instead of 10 o'clock as hitherto.

TAX RATE REDUCED IN ANTIOCH FOR YEAR 1922

Local taxpayers who paid at the rate of $8.75 per $100 for the year 1921 will be assessed $8.51 this year, according to report of Lew A. Hendee.

Court Orders Not Guilty Verdict in Hockney Case

Judge Claire C. Edwards on Tuesday took the suit for $10,000 damages brought by George Hockney against Karl E. and Bertha Jyrch, Pettite lake from the jury and a verdict of not guilty was returned. Motion was made for a new trial by the attorneys for the plaintiff and hearing will be held Feb. 3.

Hockney, in his claim for damages, sets forth that while he was working about the place a loose brick fell from the chimney of the house and struck him on the head, inflicting serious injuries. He was incapacitated for some time, he stated.

The suit was first stated in the circuit court in 1921 and has finally come to trial.

The defense will attempt to prove that though the plaintiff was working on the Jyrch home when injured, he was employed by an independent contractor and that the Jyrches are not liable.

Farmers to Hold 3-Day Meeting Starting Jan. 17

The Farmers' Institute will hold a three-day meeting, commencing Jan. 17. The opening meeting will be held at the Antioch high school. Mr. Carl C. Walker will speak on "Soy beans, a crop which is proving to be a valuable crop for this section." The household science work will be in charge of Mrs. Murry Boal. The meeting will start at 1:30.

The meeting will take place at Yorkville church on Jan. 18, with a program as follows: Forenoon—Speaker, Mr. Hewitt Evanson; highways, Mr. Russell. Afternoon—Soys, importance and growing, Carl C. Walker; household science, Mrs. Grace Viall Gray. Dinner will be served by the Yorkhouse Ladies' Aid.

The Jan. 19th meeting will be held at Wauconda with the following meeting: Forenoon—Dalyring, R. E. Caldwell; beef cattle, J. J. Doerschuk. Afternoon—Soy beans, importance and growing, Carl C. ### Hickory School

SHIRLEY HOLLENBECK, Editor

Mr. Charles Taylor of Owen, Wis., visited friend and old neighbor in this vicinity over the week end.

O. L. Hollenbeck made a business trip to Waukegan Saturday.

The place of the M. E. Church was moved to the home of William Thompson for the winter.

The telephone operator at the Hickory switch has severed connections with the farmers line east of the corners on account of the bad condition of the line.

The church sheds were recently sold and were torn down and moved away last week.

We were all glad to get back together Monday, after a two-weeks vacation. The school room was being redecorated so we couldn't start school sooner.

Mr. McAllister Irving is moving the buildings which he purchased from Mr. Sleem to his farm, adjoining.

Mr. Dan Webb, who spends the winter in River Forest, spent the week end at his farm at Hickory.

Mr. Emmet King served on jury last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Truax entertained Mrs. Truax's brother and family Sunday.

T. J. STAHL IN MAYORALTY RACE IN SPRING

T. J. Stahl will be a candidate for mayor of Waukegan at the election in the spring. It is declared by his close friends, while the report has been current for some time it was not believed he would make the race because of the fact that he only recently accepted the appointment of undersheriff under the administration of Sheriff Edwin Ahlstrom.

His friends declare, however, that if he is successful in the mayoralty race he will resign as undersheriff.

INSTALLATION OF NEW OFFICERS FOR D. A. R. MONDAY

The Daughters of the G. A. R. met Jan. 8th in regular session. The principle business of the meeting was the installation of the new officers elected to carry on the work of the order for the year to come.

With us, as installing officer, we were honored by having the state commander, Mrs. Gertrude Hassel, who very ably conducted the installation service. With her, as members of her staff, and distinguished visitors to our chapter were, Mrs. Mary Baker, senior vice commander in chief, and department adjutant; Mrs. Zella Corning, national past commander in chief, and department quartermaster; Mrs. Louise Welney, commander of S. S. Doton Fortress No. 1 Chicago, also Gen. Jas. A. Stuart, judge advocate for the department of Illinois. The thanks of Fortress Monroe of Antioch are due and gladly extended to these splendid officers and capable women who have missed no opportunity to help this fortress become firmly established. The advice, assistance and encouragement they have given have been of untold help in the efforts made to "hold the fort," against many discouragements. The year 1923 finds this fortress reinforced all along the line. It is able officered, membership doubled, all expenses met, and with a balance to our credit. Best of all, there is in the fortress that high feeling of loyalty and cooperation, of patriotism and devotion to duty that Old Glory never failed to inspire.

The meeting will take place at Yorkville church on Jan. 18, with a program as follows: Forenoon—Speaker, Mr. Hewitt Evanson; highways, Mr. Russell. Afternoon—Soy beans, importance and growing, Carl C. Walker; household science, Mrs. Grace Viall Gray. Dinner will be served by the Yorkhouse Ladies' Aid. The meeting will be held at the Antioch high school. Mr. Carl C. Walker will speak on "Soy beans, a crop which is proving to be a valuable crop for this section." The household science work will be in charge of Mrs. Murry Boal. The meeting will start at 1:30.

Libertyville Has Epidemic of Bogus Checks

Libertyville authorities are conducting a search for John Laymire, alleged bogus check artist, who paid the village a flying visit Thursday and left a trail of bad checks.

Laymire visited the Smith barber shop in that village where he succeeded in cashing a $5 check made out on a Chicago bank. He then visited the National Tea store where the manager, Willard Keefe, of Waukegan, accommodated him by cashing a check for $20. This check was made out on the First National Bank of Libertyville.

The next stop was at the Levell drug store, where the manager, Mr. Maude S. Powell and his wife, Mrs. Smith, E. R. Tweed, J. D. Riggs, F. W. Jensen, D. J. O'Brien, James Beesle, W. J. Mann and D. G. Sherwood.

At the Decker and Neville drug store Laymire had better luck as he succeeded in cashing a check for $20. Mr. Decker became suspicious, however, after he had thought the matter over and called up the bank for confirmation. He was informed that the check was bogus as Laymire had no account there. Then Decker started out to look for Laymire and his double eagle. Fortune was with him for Laymire was located at the St. Paul depot where he was waiting for a train.

He pretended to be surprised and hurt when told about the check and said there surely must be some mistake about it, but without any argument he returned the $20.

Marshal Dennis Limberry could not be located in time to arrest Laymire, who claimed to be employed on the Swift farm.

Real Detective Story Serial Starts Today

"The Case and the Girl," one of the greatest mystifying detective stories ever written has been secured by The Antioch News and will be run serially beginning today with a generous chapter.

The story is by Randall Parrish and is a new detective story of breathless interest in which an amateur investigator solves a baffling problem in a unique manner. Bursting with action, incident and adventure, it is a typical Randall Parrish tale of hand-to-hand battles between strong men, blood-queaking exploits and the romance of heroism and love. Start reading it today—you'll like it.

Render Great Help to Local Students

NOW HAS 700 BOOKS

The people of Antioch take justifiable pride in its neat, well kept and well housed library—a library which although still in its infancy, contains upward of seven hundred standard books. Few communities of equal size can show such a library.

A source of much gratification to its founders is the fact that its patronage is drawn so largely from the children and young folks of both sexes in the community. There lies the hope of the future.

The world moves forward on the feet of the children. Build a community of readers and you have a community of thinkers.

Thoughts are things—the things that make character.

The library, being young, is still in the experimental stage. Its development is being guided along lines indicated by the expressed needs and requests of the community it seeks to serve. Practically all the books have been donated, and while these books have all been so far above reproach as to render any rejection unnecessary yet it goes without saying that notwithstanding the splendid beginning already made it is only a beginning. There are still many, many books the library needs and should have upon its shelves for the use of both the English and history classes in the high school. To supply this need the teachers of these departments, Miss Brand and Miss Smith, have made urgent request for any or all books listed below.

The library committee, in its effort to secure at least as many as possible of these much desired books, appeal with the confidence born of experience, to the helpfulness and generosity of the community at large whose boys and girls the library seeks to serve.

With this list in hand please go to your book cases and shelves. If there you find any book listed below or a book or books written by any author in the list, will you not kindly send it to the chairman of the library committee, Mrs. Delta Matthews, or take it yourself to the library and send it out on its mission of helpfulness. If you have a good book to spare "Cast it like bread upon the waters" doubting not "that it shall return again to you."

The library is open every Wednesday and Saturday evening—also every Saturday afternoon from 2 o'clock until 4.

Please do what you can to supply these much needed books to the teachers who are asking for them.

The list is given as follows:

English—Any books by the following authors: Dickens, Thackeray, George Eliot, Thomas Hardy, Margaret Deland, Kipling, Cooper, Hawthorne, Mark Twain, Scott, Barrie, Austin, Jack London, Goldsmith, R. L. Stevenson, Clark, Fitch, Vandky, Dumas, Victor Hugo, Galworth, Page, Innes, Read, Mitchell and any of the poets,

St. Ignatius' Church News

Last Sunday was the first Sunday after the Epiphany and also the first Sunday in the New Year. The Church School was well attended in the morning, and all were reminded of the New Year's resolution of St. Ignatius' Church School, namely, that every teacher and scholar will be present every Sunday, and we know that it will continue from now on.

In the sermon at Morning Prayer the Epiphany or the Manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles was emphasized. As Christ was made known to the three kings of Orient, so the Church makes Christ known to us at all times. As the three kings presented the gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh to the Christ-child, so the Church presents the same gifts to us, in the form of the Sacraments, and all the blessings that come from the Church. It is up to us to receive them and to make the best possible use of them. There was then a short review of the work of the Church during the past year, and the possibilities for the coming year. The whole purpose of the Church is that we may grow in grace; and in the knowledge and love of Jesus Christ. May God continue his blessings to us in the coming year.

Next Sunday is the last Sunday for the Church School children to remember their mite boxes. Every child should bring his or her mite box next Sunday, or will be sent home for it. Please remember to bring them.

The Parish Magazine is now in the press and will be distributed as soon as it is ready. The Rt. Rev. C. P. Anderson, Bishop of Chicago, has given us notice that he will visit this Mission for the purpose of administering Holy Confirmation on Wednesday evening, April 18th. This is a little more than two weeks after Easter, which comes on April 1st this year. Let us be thinking about the Confirmation Class and praying that God will bless our efforts on this score during the coming year. The Confirmation class will be started in about two or three weeks.

Lent begins on Feb. 14th this year, and upon the first Sunday in February, Feb. 4th, Sexagesima Sunday, this Mission will be visited by the Rev. A. D. Kolbeck of LaSalle, for the purpose of administering Holy Communion and Holy Baptism.

Next Sunday Church School at 9:45 and Morning Prayer and Sermon at 11:00. Let us all start the New Year right by being present in Church every Sunday from now on. "From the rising of the sun even unto the going down of the same, my Name shall be great among the Gentiles; and in every place incense shall be offered unto my Name, and a pure offering; for my Name shall be great among the heathen, saith the Lord of Hosts." Mal. 1:11.

Sunday School	9:45
Morning Service	10:45
Young People's meeting	0:00
Evening Service	7:00

Revival every evening at seven o'clock, except Saturday, this week and next. The meetings are growing every day in attendance and interest. A number have stood for Christ. Many Christians have taken advanced ground. Everybody greatly enjoys Dr. Ludgate's singing and fascinating stories, and many wince under his clear-cut revealing of wrong. The singing by the whole congregation is most inspiring, strength and volume being added by the accompaniment on the pipe organ and piano together.

The afternoon meetings every day at two, except Saturday and Sunday, are steadily increasing in attendance and the Doctor's study of the Sermon on the Mount is one of the most helpful places of work that any evangelist has ever done.

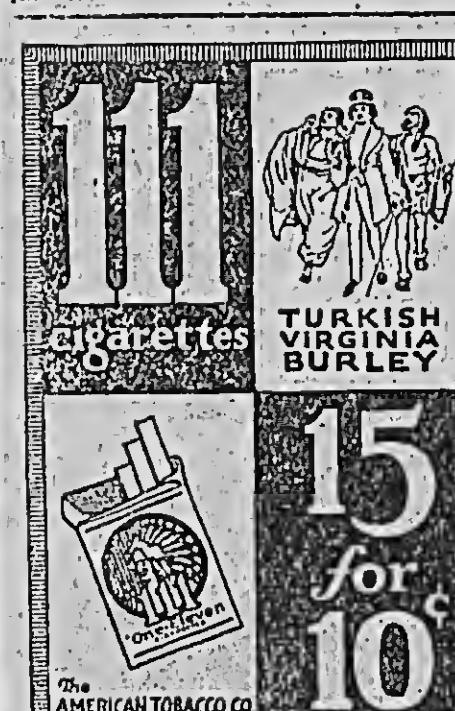

Next Sunday morning at 9:45 Dr. Ludgate will sing and speak for the Sunday School and has a special message for all the boys and girls and young folks. Then at 10:45, right after Sunday School, he will sing and speak for the public congregation. His subject will be "Christian Wings."

Then Sunday evening at seven is the big Patriotic Rally. The evangelist will have a fine address and special music for the occasion. Nobody will want to miss Sunday night.

Every night next week will be a special night. Monday night is High School night, Tuesday is Club night, Wednesday is My Chum night, Thursday is Neighbors' Night and Friday is Family night.

Every Christian should be working with his or her friends to get them to come out and take their stand for Christ. "Now is the accepted time." Let us all remember to be praying every day for those on our prayer lists.

There was an earthquake recently which frightened the inhabitants of a certain town. A little family sent away their little boy to stay with an uncle in another district, explaining the reason. A day or two later the parents received this telegram: "Am returning your boy. Send the earthquake."

INTERESTING FACTS

106,327 Ford Cars and Trucks
Retailed in November

APPROXIMATELY THE SAME NUMBER WERE DELIVERED IN DECEMBER

What Does This Mean?

This volume of deliveries to actual owners is entirely unprecedented for this time of the year—

It has taxed the manufacturing ability of the Ford plants working at full capacity—

It indicates a volume of business during the rapidly approaching months of "heavy demand" which will be far beyond the maximum production schedule which the Ford Motor Company has set—

And that means a Ford shortage even more acute than the one which existed last Spring and Summer.

Dealers' stocks all over the country are low—there are no reserves to draw upon to meet the demands for delivery—

There is no way in which dealer reserves can be built up, as deliveries have been made to customers as fast as Cars could be manufactured since last April.

The only way you can protect your desire to obtain prompt delivery of a Ford even at this time is to place your order immediately.

This emphasizes more strongly than anything we could possibly say the necessity of your making prompt arrangements with a Ford Dealer for the listing of your order, particularly if you are contemplating the purchase of a Ford Car or Truck for use this Spring or Summer.

We believe you are entitled to know these facts as they actually exist.

John Kret gave a very interesting talk to the fifth and sixth grades Monday afternoon, telling of his father's experience as a lumberman in Canada.

Francis Davis is staying with relatives in Grayslake until her mother's health improves.

The sixth grade have been having supplementary problems in arithmetic dealing with addition, subtraction and division of fractions.

Those having sleds at school enjoyed the "hump the bump" immensely.

Elsie Roeschlein enjoyed a trip to Armour's estate at Lake Forest Sunday.

Everett Caepridor moved to Zion City. The fifth grade are sorry to lose him.

Helen Norman has again returned to school. The fourth grade pupils are very glad to have her with them again.

Louise Fox and Xavier Hawkins are absent from school on account of sickness.

The second grade are very glad to hear that Eileen Osmond is recovering from her severe illness.

Best Circulation in Own Community

Some men and women spend their money away from home because they think they are putting it "into circulation."

They are sincere in their belief that they are serving a real economic purpose by taking the trolley or the train periodically and buying the things they need in some metropolis of the state. An eloquent stranger from the city in question has explained the matter to them in great detail and perhaps with some logic.

Or they have read the printed arguments sent out by a big dividend paying mail-order house in a distant part of the country.

In either case, the advice never comes from any fellow townsman of theirs who has the interests of the home town at heart.

That is a point to be remembered.

Put Cash into Motion.

It is true that such buyers, by carrying their money out of town in person, or sending it out by money-order, are putting their money into motion. That is one step in the process of circulation as it is known by economists and business men. The dictionary says in defining circulation: "Motion around or through something, back to the starting point."

Nothing comes back in the kind of "circulation" they are trying to put under way. Value received would come back to the community, if it were the right kind of circulation. That is the theory of all sound business. Nothing must be lost in the cycle, whether the return is in money or in kind.

The money, or the purchasing power, that is in a small community is like the reservoir of water that is stored up behind a dam. The big-city market is the lowland into which the river drains when the sluice-gates are lifted every time some member of the community carries his money away, the water level is lowered, and the power that should grind the corn is lost.

Old Saying Truthful.

And it is as true here as in the old saying, that "The mill will never grind with the water that has passed."

We are getting into theory here, but it is the theory on which all sound business life is based, and our readers must be set straight on this point if the big campaign of community education which is being carried on in Lake Villa is to succeed.

There can be no true circulation under the circumstances any more than water can flow uphill.

Why?

Because there is nothing in the smaller community to attract the necessary return current.

Let us put the case concretely: You earn your money in Lake Villa. It is the heart-blood of the community's life. Instead of buying what you need at the Lake Villa store, so as to keep the money in circulation at home, and thus helping to maintain a healthy business life, you drain these industrial corporations out of the system. Every such drain weakens it.

And you pay more than you get at home for the same merchandise, as we will prove subsequently in this weekly series of educational articles.

Nothing Comes Back.

Now the money it's out. What comes back from this expenditure made in the distant big city by your lake Villa money?

Nothing—absolutely nothing.

Your wanted "circulation" is a myth. The big city is self-sufficing. Lake Villa has nothing, makes nothing, and raises nothing, that the metropolitan neighbor must have. Lake Villa cannot supply anything that hundreds of other places of similar size cannot supply. Lake Villa shoppers—in person or by mail—are cultivated so long as their money holds out; after that they are no longer wanted.

Regular services next Sunday at the regular hours. Subject for the morning service, "What must the Church do to be saved?" You are welcome.

The seventh grade are studying South America, and the groans that follow each word show how hard they are to be pronounced.

The Lake Villa high school team has entered the Lake County Junior League.

The two church teams which were to play forfeited their game by not appearing. Lake Villa team played Allendale team; and the Lake Villa team was beaten by the score of 41 to 10.

Three seventh and eighth grade boys had some candy teddy bears. They were so hard to chew that they couldn't eat them during recess, and they had to go out in the hall to finish them.

Last Wednesday the banking amount was eight dollars and fifty cents. Banking amount all together is $22.30. The reason for our small amount that so much has been taken out for Christmas money.

The perfect attendance are: Lena Sebora, Bertha Schorn, Kenneth Burnett, Jane Almberg.

Mildred McCarthy has been absent. The new encyclopedias are here. The cloak room for the high school has been finished.

The pupils in the high school room that have a perfect attendance are: Carl Almberg, Roy Sincero, Lester Hamlin, Bertie Wallace, Marie Nadr.

Margaret and Joe Dragoo have moved to Chicago.

The Church on the Hill

Copy of letter sent from Lake Bluff to the church at Lake Villa:

Dear Friends:

We are writing to thank you for your generous Christmas donation. The gifts of candy and toys gladdened the hearts of the children, while the gifts of clothing, money and food cheered the hearts of those who bear the responsibility of providing the necessities for the home. For all this we are deeply grateful.

During the week preceding Christmas we had a series of parties. Our old friend Santa visited us Saturday before Christmas and gave to each child the gift marked with his or her name. The climax of it all came on Christmas day. We were awakened early by the singing of carols under our window by some of the girls from Judson Hall. As soon as the sound of singing had died away there was a rush to get dressed as everyone was to be in the dining room at six o'clock. Such excitement! Stocking could not be emptied or packages unwrapped soon enough for the older children. Not so with the tiny folks. Each little girl found a doll, unwrapped, and had no interest in wrapped parcels and burlap stockings. The little boys' whole attention centered on the first article found—top, engine or blocks—and their cup of joy was full. Even the glistening tree now failed to attract.

After breakfast there was another rush to get the dishes washed and each child dressed in his "Sunday best," and down at the North Shore station two special cars were waiting to take the happy crowd to Wilmette for the day. Even this full happy day did not end our holiday festivities as there was a movie at Waukegan on the following Wednesday for our large family.

Thanking you again for your part in making our holiday a happy one, and wishing you a happy New Year, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
LUCY J. JUDSON.

When walking is not a case of have to then it becomes a pleasure, so three young ladies from Waukegan found it last Sunday when they walked the distance of 17 miles in a few hours from Waukegan to Lake Villa, regardless of snow and rough roads. The "trio" called on Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jensen of Chesney Farms and after resoling a while spent two hours of skating on Fox Lake. All enjoyed their day so well that next time they will set out for a "hike" twice the distance covered this time.

Does Your Money Come Back?

When you spend your money out of town, when you patronize stores in other cities, or buy from mail order houses, your money never comes back. Money spent outside of Lake Villa will never be used for the betterment of your home town. Money spent in Lake Villa stays here—it circulates here—it is used for you. The profits of the merchants of Lake Villa are spent here.

Are you sending your money away where it—or the good it may do—will never come back? Keep your money where it will work for you.

CHAPTER I

The Lady in the Limousine.

West, still attired in khaki uniform, but wearing the red chevron of honorable discharge on his left sleeve, sat in the club writing room, his feet comfortably elevated, endeavoring to extract some entertainment from the evening paper. The news was not particularly interesting, however, and finally, obsessed with the feeling that it would soon be time for him to seriously contemplate the procuring of suitable employment, the young man turned the sheet about rather idly, and ran his eyes down the columns devoted to classified advertising.

Half way down the first column, under the head of "miscellaneous," he paused and read a paragraph with some interest; then read it over again, emitting a soft whistle between his teeth.

"Well, by Jove!" he said to himself slowly, "That doesn't sound so bad, either; out of the ordinary, at least. Say, Thompson," and he turned to a tall young fellow busily writing at the adjoining desk, and shoved the paper under his eyes, pointing at the paragraph which had attracted attention, with one finger, "What do you make out of that, old man?"

The other, rather sober-faced, and slow of speech, read the advertisement word by word, with no change of expression.

"Rot," he said solemnly. "Either a joke, or some scheme on. Why? Interested in it?"

"In a measure, yes. I've a good mind to answer, and take a chance."

"You're a fool if you do, Mitt," decisively, and turning back to his writing. "That is some game being pulled off. Likely as not it means blackmail. Besides there is no ad-dress."

"That's one thing I like about it," retorted the other; "They are in earnest, and taking no chances of having their purpose guessed at. By Jove, I don't see how any one can get in bad, merely by finding out what it all means."

"Well, do as you please; you would anyhow. Only you have my advice."

West read the item again. He had been eighteen months in France, and his discharge from the army had left him bored and dissatisfied with the dull routine of civil life. He dreaded to get back into the harness of a prosaic existence; even his profession as a civil engineer had somehow lost its charm. He had tasted the joy of adventure, the thrill of danger, and it was still alluring. This advertisement promised a mystery which strangely attracted his imagination.

"Wanted: Young man of education and daring for service involving some personal peril. Good pay, and unusual reward if successful. May have to leave city. Purpose disclosed only to personal interview."

As Thompson had pointed out, this was not signed, nor any address given. West crossed over to an unoccupied desk, and wrote a reply, changing the wording several times, and finally making a clean copy. The answer read:

To Advertiser: Am 26; Inte cap-in of Engineers; university graduate, adventurous disposition. Would be glad to consider your proposition. Address, Box 57, University Club.

He placed this in an envelope, called a club messenger, and, handing the boy a sum of money, sent him over to the newspaper office.

Two days elapsed before an answer appeared in his box; a small envelope, addressed in a lady's handwriting apparently, and mailed from one of the sub-postoffices. The brief note read:

"Box 57, University Club.

"Your answer to advertisement makes a good impression, and I am willing to put you to the further test of a personal meeting. If you are in earnest in this matter, and quite prepared to assume the necessary risk, you will be at the northwest corner of Spaulding park at 5:30 tomorrow afternoon. Do not come in uniform, but it will be well to bring evening clothes in a bag. Be sure of yourself, and be prompt."

"Very truly yours,

"The Advertiser."

West read this over, again and again, smoking furiously, and endeavoring to weigh each word. The letter sounded honest and sincere; the writer evidently had a purpose in view, and was selecting an agent with great care and secrecy. No hint as to what that object was would be revealed blindly—he must be tried in every way first; thoroughly tested as to both character and courage. Undoubtedly steps had already been taken to do this. The delay in reply would have afforded opportunity for some investigation, as his address would give the necessary clue to his identity. The request for evening clothes, however, rather renounced him; evidently his first plunge into this mystery was not to occur in any stratum of low society; no vast amount of personal danger could be involved in such preliminaries. The advertiser was a woman! This fact no doubt stimulated his imagination, and rendered him the more eager. By Jove! he would see the thing through!

His decision was reached. He would go, but would make every effort to protect himself against any possible treachery. He had a room at the club, and wrote letter or two before proceeding to dress, arranging for their personal delivery in case he failed to return at a designated time; carefully examined his service revolver, and deposited it in the pocket of the business suit he decided to wear. Satisfied with these arrangements, he dressed rapidly, and then packed his bag, bearing it in his hand as he departed in ample time for the point of rendezvous. A cab took him to the place designated, and he found himself alone in a rather desolate spot, with which he was in no way familiar. He had no knowledge of how he was to be approached, or identified, but his being requested to bring a bag containing evening clothes, somehow suggested riding, rather than walking, and consequently his eyes followed more or less intently the constant stream of automobiles.

He grew restless and doubtful as the moments slipped past. Then suddenly, without the slightest warning, a black limousine whirled alongside the curb, and came to a stop immediately in front of where he waited. The chauffeur, dressed in plain dark livery, stepped out, and threw open the rear door, without asking so much as a question. Except that the fellow stood there, looking directly toward him, his fingers on the latch, expectantly, West would not have known that he was wanted. Yet it was all so obvious he could not question. Silently he picked up his bag, and stepped forward. He saw one within, but firm in the belief that the chauffeur must have his orders, he entered blindly, the door closing instantly behind him. The curtains were drawn, the interior gloomy and indistinct, and the driver had resumed his seat, and started the motor, before West realized that he was not alone. In one corner of the wide back seat, drawn back from any possible observation from without, sat a woman.

At first glance he could only vaguely distinguish the outlines of her figure,

"Really, I did not anticipate such a sincere compliment. No doubt you learned these delightful speeches in France," she answered, a very faint tinge of sarcasm in the words. "However, this is a very serious matter. Captain West, and really has nothing to do with my personal appearance. I am seeking neither flirtation nor compliment; merely a trustworthy agent. First of all, it is necessary that you comprehend this."

He bowed, impressed by her manner, and somewhat ashamed of his impetuosity.

"I accept the reproof," he said quietly, "and will endeavor henceforth not to offend in any way. I am entirely at your service."

"There is no offense; I merely thought it best there should be no misunderstanding. Now, I am sure, we can proceed intelligently. Indeed, I am going to frankly confess, I also like your appearance. This mutual liking ought to be half the battle. We have quite a ride before us yet; you may question me if you wish."

"You mean I am to question you freely?"

"Assuredly; while I am to remain quite as free in my answers. That is perfectly fair, is it not?"

"At least, it sounds so. Where am I being transported, then? And why the dress suit?"

His questions evidently amused, for her eyes sparkled.

"Naturally that query comes first; and especially the dress suit. You have the prejudices of your sex, I see, and without regret, I shall endeavor to reply categorically, yet with reservations. We are going to country home, where we dine, in company with a few guests."

"I see; I am first of all to be projected into society. Are any of these guests known to me?"

"God forbid; and I may even venture to predict that you will never care to know any of them again. You are to be present as my guest, and will be welcomed."

"I feel the honor; but would it not be well under these circumstances for me to know more clearly whose guest I am? Suppose, for instance, I had to refer to our long friendship, it would be extremely awkward not to even be able to mention your name."

"My name! Why, of course, you do not know what it is. Well, really I am not altogether certain that I do either. We will therefore compromise on the one I am known by, which will be safer. Allow me, Captain West, to present to you Miss Natalie Coolidge."

She held out frankly a neatly gloved hand, which he at once took, and retained in his own, the girl making no immediate effort to withdraw it.

"A TALE OF TWO BULLS."

Advantages of the "better air" are graphically and humorously set forth in a new animated cartoon, "A Tale of Two Bulls," now available from the United States department of agriculture. This film concerns the affairs of a farmer who has a scrub bull, and suffers financial loss accordingly. A visit to a neighbor who has a purebred bull convinces him that he is on the wrong track. He hastens home, dispatches the old scrub and gets a new bull. New-found prosperity amply justifies his joining the better-breeders movement, sponsored by the bureau of animal industry.

THEN—

"Yes," concluded the tailor, "I never worry gentlemen about their bills; I never ask a gentleman for money."

"Well, how do you get paid?" asked the customer.

"Well," said the tailor, "after a short time has elapsed, I conclude that my customer is no gentleman. Then I mention business."

"Quite melodramatic, is it not, Captain West?" she asked, in a decidedly pleasant voice. "I trust it appeals thoroughly to that disposition for adventure of which you wrote."

"Nothing more could be desired. I am sure," he confessed, surprised at her tone, and glancing toward her. "I certainly am left completely in the dark, unable even to clearly distinguish my mysterious companion in adventure."

"And there really is no longer any occasion for such concealment." She lifted the heavy curtain beside her, permitting the grey light to rest upon her face. "I preferred not to be seen at the park for obvious reasons; but here, alone with you, such precaution is quite unnecessary. We are to be either friends or enemies, so frankness is the best course."

He saw the face of a young woman of twenty-four, or five, with dark eyes and hair, her cheeks flushed with health and excitement, her lips smiling. It was a face of unusual attractiveness, not regular, perhaps, in any of its features, yet filled with character, and glowing with life. He liked the girl, and believed in her.

"You can only think you," he said, rather lamely. "Although I do not understand now how we could ever become enemies. Surely, that is not a threat?"

"Oh, no, it is far too true. You have yet to learn what I require. Yet that was very nicely said. I take it to mean your first impression of me is not unfavorable?"

"Very far from it. I am already deeply interested in my task. If I lacked an incentive before, you have furnished it."

She laughed again softly, her eyes still on his face.

"Really, I did not anticipate such a sincere compliment. No doubt you learned these delightful speeches in France," she answered, a very faint tinge of sarcasm in the words. "However, this is a very serious matter. Captain West, and really has nothing to do with my personal appearance. I am seeking neither flirtation nor compliment; merely a trustworthy agent. ## Gives Valuable Facts Concerning Trimming of Ornamental Trees

Winter is the season of the year chosen as the proper time to trim ornamental trees by many owners of them. Valuable suggestions as to the operation are contained in this article by H. J. Eddy, the Public Service Company's forester.

It is very little trouble to train a tree into a good shape by using the pruning knife while the limbs are small, but it is usually difficult to reform a tree after it has grown to maturity. One who understands tree growth, however, can often reshape the top of a neglected tree to advantage, though many who make a business of tree trimming know so little about it that they do more harm than good. More mature trees have been hurt by severe pruning than they have been helped. Of course, dead or dying trees should be removed no matter what the age of the tree. This should be done by cutting off the limb back of the nearest healthy crotch. A limb should not be cut off square across unless the tree is apparently in a dying condition, and the whole top is treated thus to save its life. In such a case a second pruning should follow within two years, at which time the stubs left at the first trimming should be cut off in a proper manner near the newly started limbs. Healthy silver maples and willows are frequently cut in this way, but the maples in particular would better be cut down at once than to subject the public to the dangers of the insidious decay that almost always follows such an operation on these trees and completes their destruction promptly.

Trees that have been neglected a long time frequently have interfering or crossing branches or are too low or densely headed for the place where they are growing. Defects of this kind may be at least partially remedied. The removal of the limbs by cutting them off at a crotch in such a manner that the wound is parallel with the remaining branch, inflicts the least possible damage. Such a wound in a healthy tree will soon heal over if the cut is made through the slight collar or ring that is nearly always present at the base of a branch. The closer this cut can be made to the trunk the better the appearance when the wound is healed. The closer the cut the larger the wound, but the difference is unimportant if the wood is well protected until it is healed. These operations are entirely different in purpose and result from the "heading-in" or "heading-back" so often practiced under the guise of tree trimming either from a false notion or forming a tree or for the passage of wires.

Changing the form of a tree by pruning should not be attempted. Each species has its own form or form and no attempt should be made to change or distort a tree from its original habit of growth. Successful pruning will accentuate rather than disguise a tree's characteristics. All cuts should be made so that no stubs or protuberances are left to prevent quick healing. Small wounds need no after treatment if the cut is well made. Large wounds should have

FARMERS RECEIVE MANY RADIO WEATHER WARNINGS

The introduction of radiotelephony has made it possible for anyone to receive messages in spoken words instead of a code, and has enormously increased the broadcasting of weather information over the interior of the country. A year ago the daily state forecasts of the weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture were being broadcast from 12 radio stations in only 7 states, and principally by radiotelegraphy. On July 1, 1922, 93 stations in 35 states were daily broadcasting weather forecasts and warnings.

The weather bureau does not own or operate any wireless equipment. The radio distribution work is accomplished through plants operated by other government agencies, corporations, and by private individuals, and without expense to the weather bureau. To avoid unnecessary crowding of the air and interference with schedules, only two stations are licensed to broadcast in any city or community. This limits the number that would otherwise gladly cooperate in the work. There are at present about 400 licensed broadcasting stations in the United States.

The future usefulness of radiotelephony as a means for disseminating weather forecasts and warnings can not be estimated. Formerly many farmers were so located as to be inaccessible by newspapers or telegraph. Telephone lines extended into rural communities overcomes some, but not all, of this difficulty. To benefit by radiotelegraphy the code has to be learned. The marvelous advance in radiotelephony has changed this situation, for thousands of farmers have installed receiving apparatus during the past year and are now obtaining forecasts and warnings promptly and effectively.

good live tissue. Removing such wood frequently exposes decayed cavities from bad stubs or injuries which have started decay that has followed back to the main limbs or the trunk. The treatment of such cavities is the province of tree surgery, but if one thinks of having some such work done he should be very careful to employ responsible persons.

One source of trouble with a large tree that has developed with two trunks or branches instead of three or more is the liability of their splitting apart. This is especially characteristic of the elm. Careful attention to the early pruning of trees may eliminate this defect, but when it exists in mature trees it is frequently advisable to connect the branches by a strong cable in order to prevent the limbs from being torn apart.

Leadership to Assert Itself
Cooperation, Under Careful
Guardianship, Spells Prosperity

What one thing won the war?
It was leadership.
We in this country are not willing to admit that the weight of our army and navy did not play a large part in bringing hostilities to a close; but without the unified command we might be fighting yet.

Leadership was what won for the allies in their fight to make the world "safe for democracy." In all the world, throughout all history, there never was a bigger job than this, and the leadership of General Foch finished it.

But what has this to do with our home town? you ask.

We'll show you in just a minute.

Leadership is Essential.

What mobilized all America so that it was able to put the weight of all its 110,000,000 people, of all its industry, of all its wealth and of all its natural resources behind the blow we struck for humanity?

Leadership again. What this country did in providing the world with a merchant marine, is a case in point. If we pull in opposite direction we, the community, will suffer. China has 400,000,000 men, each one of whom can outwork in American. Russia has large population, and great natural wealth, yet neither China nor Russia are prosperous. They lack real leaders.

Must Sustain Leaders.

Antioch must sustain its leaders if they are to guide the way during Reconstruction times. When we give them the largest measure of support, then we can hold them accountable for the progress of the community. We know that they are true leaders, because we had experience with their leadership in the past. It is the right kind of leadership because it is unselfish, for we have seen that whatever prosperity comes to this city is a result of their effort, is shared by you and me and every single individual in the community.

This is democracy in its highest form.

With the merchants of Antioch there is no inducement in running up a record of sales this month compared with last month, or with last year. If that were their aim, they would be unworthy of the confidence placed in them by the people of this community. Their purpose is to make Antioch strong and prosperous, and in the realization of this purpose you benefit as much as they. Your wants, and those of your family, must be supplied, whether you buy here or elsewhere. If you buy elsewhere, and your neighbor buys elsewhere, the movement of money—which constitute the sinews of our local business system—will be away from Antioch. Home trade will suffer, merchants will have to go out of business, stores will become vacant, houses will be for rent, taxes will go up on your property if schools, roads and other improvements are to be maintained at the present standard.

Down Bankruptcy Road.

You are starting yourself on the downhill road to bankruptcy unless the buying power of your fellow-towners is pitted against you to offset the influence of your example.

But when you buy at home, there is an entirely different picture to paint. The money goes the rounds and leaves strength and confidence behind with every transaction through which it passes. You save what would otherwise be wasted in an expensive shopping trip to the city. Increased trade means a larger assortment of goods offered by the home-town stores. All the buildings are occupied and more are needed. Everywhere there is confidence. New buildings go up, and property values rise. Your house and your lot increases in value, sharing in the general prosperity by which all profit.

HOW TO BOOST

The merchants of Antioch are here to stay. They chose to locate here because they believe in Antioch. They are not interested in a quick "clean-up", in running up sales records; but to grow steadily with the growth of the town. Nothing can contribute to the growth of any place like a strong mercantile backing. Nothing is asked of the merchants of Antioch that they are not glad to give freely. You can help them to help the town—you can help yourself by trading at home. And the best of it is, when you keep your money at home.

News Briefs of ## Nearby Towns of Local Interest

Price of milk to consumer went up in Waukegan Saturday.

The increase, according to local distributors, is due to a 55-cent per hundred pounds increase granted to the farmers by the dealers.

In most instances the advance from the consumer's is one cent. Price of whipping cream which went up from 20 to 25 cents, is the only exception in that regard distributors said that the price was previously too low for profit.

The following scale of prices became effective:

Quart of milk, 12 cents; pint of milk, 7 cents; half pint of cream 16 cents; half pint of whipping cream, 25 cents; quart of butter milk, 10 cents.

In the past the consumer has been paying the following prices: Quart of milk, 11 cents; pint of milk, 6 cents; half pint of cream, 20 cents, and quart of butter milk, 9 cents.

The Salvation Army and Navy Military hotel, Sheridan road and Clayton street, for two years the largest hostelry in Waukegan, has been purchased from the Salvation Army by a corporation—a group of Chicago business men headed by E. W. Sangor. The new owners will take possession February 1. The deal was engineered by E. Swartz & Co. of Waukegan.

Lake Geneva will take part in the Travel and Out-Door Life exposition to be held May 7 to 12 at the Coliseum, Chicago, according to E. J. Lewinski, secretary of the Retail Merchants association. The extent of space to be devoted to Lake Geneva, its hotels and points of interest will depend on the response to the appeal for financing the project.

Volvyn will go on trial for the second time in the famous Volvyn-Nelson libel case Jan. 15, according to the information received by State Attorney A. V. Smith. The trial will be heard before Judge Hopkins, of Chicago, who was appointed by Judge McKinley as the magistrate to pass on the hearing.

The jury found Volvyn guilty of libel at the last trial but Judge Edwards reversed the verdict.

According to announcement made in last week's Gazette, the Richmond dairy plant opened for business on New Year's day, dairymen in that vicinity bringing about 13,000 pounds of milk to that plant on the opening day, and each day since Monday there has been an increase in the amount received. Wednesday a total of 15,000 pounds was weighed in. While all dairymen who signed up with the Marketing Co. are not now bringing their milk to Richmond, it is thought that many will do so in the near future.

The plant there is under the supervision of Mr. Clarence Ross, of Peoria, Illinois, where he has had charge of one of the Marketing Company's plants, and Mr. Ross is assisted by Robert Gibbs and Francis Howden. The plant is fully equipped to handle the business and everything is in good sanitary condition, according to announcement made by the Chicago health inspector who visited the plant last week.

The building and equipment there having become the property of the citizens of the community, the original owners, Richmond, are assured of always having a plant, for it is not thought they will let it get out of their hands again after having gone through the experience of being without a plant there in the past year.
